Coal Board Head Named Chairman Of Committee By DOUT COLLINS (Herald Staff Reporter)

An "emergency committee" has been set up by the federal government in an effort to solve the problems of Western Canada's coal industry.

The move follows representations made to Ottawa by union men, operators and the governments of Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia.

The delegation charged federal authorities with "inefficiency" in its tariff policies and demanded increased import duties on United States coal coming into Canada.

This would permit production of a further 2,000,000 tons a year in the West. As an alternative higher freight subsidies were requested on western coal shipped east.

Chairman of the committee is W. E. Uren, head of the Dominion Coal Board. Edward Boyd, secretary-treasurer, District 18, United Mine Workers of America, represents his union, and Lorraine Brier, president, Coal Operators Association of Western Canada, and T. G. Ewart, head of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. Ltd., represents the operators.

Robert Bryce, secretary of the privy council, has also been named as a committee member, and representatives are to be appointed by the department of trade and commerce and the department of finance.

C.N.P. Teachers Hold Social Evening

Approximately 150 teachers, school trustees and guests gathered at Turtle Mountain Playgrounds, Thursday, November 25 for a social evening sponsored by the C.N.P. local of the A.T.A.

Following the singing of O Canada, Mr. Spillers, president of the local A.T.A. welcomed the teachers and guests. At the conclusion of the turkey supper, Mr. Jallop, of Blairmore, proposed a toast to the Queen.

Mr. Eric Price, of Bellevue, in charge of entertainment, introduced Mrs. McLeod, of Blairmore, who sang "The Second Minute" and "Sunrise and You", accompanied at the piano by Mr. Moffatt of Blairmore.

The second artist, Mrs. Gwen Cousins sang "My Hero" and "Philosophy" accompanied at the piano by Mrs. J. R. Hill. Mr. Price, accompanied by Mr. Moffatt, sang "Rose of Tralee" and "Till Walk Beside You" which concluded this short but much enjoyed phase of the evening.

Mr. Spillers introduced to the group, the guest speaker for the evening, Mr. Fred Seymour, assistant Secretary of the A.T.A.

In his address entitled "Make It Your Business" Mr. Seymour stated that fear rules the 20th Century — fear of tomorrow, of Bombs, of finance, of 5 o'clock shadow, and body odor, but the shrines of the public are still the schools, the church and the home.

It is when these are criticized that our faith is shaken. Criticism Mr. Seymour pointed out, is usually a sign of interest — some forms of criticism are injurious. When claims that a school system is undemocratic, fosters class distinctions, and intellectual snobbery, is made the public must not be stampeded. We must not become involved in witch hunts and seek scapegoats.

Mr. Seymour pointed out that the public support and public goodwill towards our schools are inseparable. The school and community, the teacher and parent, the principal and superintendent must work and plan together. Good schools cannot flourish in atmospheres of dissension and anxiety.

What shall be taught and how it is to be taught are today's questions. The parents want a voice in what their children are taught and how. Citizens committees should take part in the schools in their districts. The weakest schools are those in which a single group are in control. Here there exists no exchange of ideas, but only stagnation.

In a community where parents are active and take part in school planning, the teacher has a definite role. The teachers must explain and justify to the parents.

There is no substitute for good teaching, Mr. Seymour concluded, and educators must accept this basic rule. Education involves the public's money and its children.

The public must make education what they do in the classroom.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Seymour was moved by Mr. Perceval of Bellevue.

The evening was rounded off with community singing with Bert Bond of Coleman at the piano. tion his business.

A. MacQuarrie New School Janitor

At a special meeting of the Coleman School Board last Friday, trustees considered a number of applications for janitor at Central School. Allister MacQuarrie was chosen for the job.

The vacancy occurred due to the resignation of Neil McKinnon. Mr. McKinnon has been employed at the school for 9 years and resigned due to ill health.

Mrs. Frances Maurer To Reside In Lethbridge

Mrs. Frances Maurer has left to reside in Lethbridge following 28 years residence in Coleman. Her departure will be felt by her many friends and neighbors. An active member of Holy Ghost Parish, she has been organist at the church for the past 26 years.

Prior to her departure she was honored at a party in the Catholic Hall, November 30, by members of the Catholic Women's League and friends.

On entering the hall, the guest of honor was escorted to the guest table by Mrs. Helen Unwin, who presented her with a corsage, the gift of Mrs. Alice Buckna.

Whist and games were enjoyed during the evening, whist honors going to Mrs. J. McDonald, Mrs. Marie Kinnear and Mrs. A. Topak. Game prizes were awarded to Mrs. C. Marconi and Mrs. K. Chernecky.

A delicious lunch was served by the committee, following which Mrs. A. Vasek, on behalf of members and friends, presented Mrs. Maurer with a travelling bag and table lamp, also a gift of silver spoons from the C.W.L.

On Friday, November 26th a Whist Drive was held in the Catholic Hall, honors going to: Gents. 1st Mr. M. Harry, 2nd Mr. Persta; 3rd, Mr. W. Moezli. Ladies, 1st Mrs. P. Bernard; 2nd Mrs. Sullivan; 3rd Mrs. Mascherin Sr.

At the close of the whist, lunch was served and Father McCreery presented Mrs. Maurer with a picture, the gift of the parish. Mrs. Maurer, in a few well chosen words, thanked her friends.

J. Lilya Laid To Rest

Funeral services for John Lilya were held in St. Paul's United Church Wednesday with Rev. Chubb officiating. Interment was made in the Union Cemetery.

Our READERS Say

DEAR FOLKS:

I am now able to tell you about an Egyptian sand storm, as we have had our first experience with one. Harold called back at the house before leaving for work, to warn me of its coming. He said it looked like a grim scene from a movie, and believe me it sure did. You couldn't see from one side of the street to the other, all houses and stores were closed up tight, only the odd Arab could be discerned through the dust, scooting home on his donkey. It started to blow at 7 o'clock in the morning and kept up until 5 in the afternoon, then it rained a little and that settled everything. You would not know a thing had happened after that, until you took a look at your house. We had to start shovelling, we tried sweeping, several times during the day, but gave it up as a bad job. There was at least one quarter of an inch of sand on all of the window-sills, not counting what sifted in under the doors and through the cracks. The sand is red and the house looked very colorful. The natives tell us that if it had not rained the storm might have continued from 3 days to a week.

I spent 4 days in the city of Alexandria having my teeth fixed. We have a dentist here in Mersa Matruh, but he isn't very good. The one in Alexandria is a real fine one, he is up to date in work and in equipment, his prices are very reasonable too. Harold with the aid of Mary Jane, and Slad took care of the children. I stayed with my Austrian girl friend, that I mentioned of, in a previous letter. They have a beautiful 9 roomed apartment (with 3 bathrooms) all furnished, and they only pay $1 dollars a month for it. What a difference from Canada, as you know we had to pay $5 dollars a month for a two room basement suite with only a shower in it. Immense villas can be rented, furnished, their prices ranging from 60 to 120 dollars a month, and they are really something, with large yards, cultivated, and landscaped. Alexandria is a city of a million people, part of it is very beautiful, and then it goes to the other extreme where there is dire poverty. However it is in two sections, and one does not have to go into the poor section at all. The city itself is situated on the coast of the Mediterranean, and there are beautiful beaches for miles and miles. The downtown buildings are very modernistic (has Canada beat) and the shopping district is really lovely, you can get almost anything you wish, only the prices are a little higher.

I want to mention here before I forget, that the company will be moving all the staff families to Alexandria within the next couple of months. All the men will be in camps, I will be on the lookout for a villa pretty soon. We are taking Susu and Slad with us as they are so "on" to the family ways, it will save me the trouble of breaking in new servants. When we actually live there, I am going to school to learn to speak French, and the Arabic properly. I am on to the Arabic pretty well, but will struggle with the French, and see what happens. I might come back with an education in languages if nothing else. The French is the first language used here, the Arabic next, then the English.

I saw a good movie while at Alexandria, namely "The Caine Mutiny". The movies are just the same as in Canada and U.S. only at the bottom of the scene there is writing in French and Arabic. The theatres are lovely, and also the restaurants (the high class ones). Leanna and I dinner in one of them before we went to the movies, it was beautifully furnished, each table had a bouquet of roses on it, ferns in profusion were all around. In a corner there were several musicians playing lovely Russian music, quite an atmosphere, really.

The children are all fine, Christopher Paul is wonderful, so lovely and chubby. You asked about the frig and formula, well we had a little kerosene frig but I didn't have to worry, because I kept an amount of boiled water in the bottles I needed, and then I just added the powdered milk, there was no trouble at all to it. As far as his fluid situation is concerned, I am not worried any more. I can get Fabum and a very good food called "Nestle's Apple Food" which I combine. Then I also got a "food mill" that grinds up vegetables, and I give him meat juices mixed up with that, its working out very successfully. Steve and Danny eat anything that you put before them.

Harold is fine, and as for myself I am 100% doing petit point, knitting, playing the accordion, and oil-painting. Will be closing for this time, our kind regards to the Coleman friends.

HISSTEN HUMAN BEINGS

Anytime that you start having a high and mighty feeling about yourselves, well just pipe down, as that commercially the human it is not very flattering to know body is worth only 98 cents. It contains only enough fat for six cakes of soap, enough iron to make six medium size nails, enough sugar to fill one bowl, enough calcium, which when converted into lime would whitewash one small chicken coop, and enough phosphorus to supply heads for 1,000 matches.

It is a strange thing that a person is worth less than one dollar in a commercial market when dead, but when we come into this world we cost a small fortune, and to keep going for the average lifetime we require a fortune, and when we pass into the beyond, and the last rites are said over us, the resultant bills can't be sneezed at.

COAL PROVINCES WAIT ON FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

(by Doug Collins)
(Calgary Herald
Staff Reporter)

A delegation representing the coal industry of western Canada Monday met a cabinet committee in Ottawa and demanded federal aid to prevent the industry from shrinking to an "insignificant size". Action was requested "within 60 days".

The party consisted of officers from District 18, United Mine Workers of America, officials from the Coal Operators Association of Western Canada, and representatives of the Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia governments.

Robert Livett, M.B.E., Calgary, president of District 18, headed the miners and Brigadier Lorraine Patrick, the operators, Norman Willmore, Alberta minister of trade and industries, appeared for this province. Lyle Wicks, provincial minister of labor, spoke for B.C., and H. S. Ward provincial economic research director, represented Saskatchewan.

It was the first time in history that the three western provinces have taken united action to halt the coal crisis. The delegates said they saw "no end" to the present situation unless the federal government was prepared to create markets for western coal in Ontario of 2,000,000 tons a year.

The federal government was charged with "inconsistency" in its tariff policies. Pointing out that a place for western coal might be found if restrictions were placed on imports of United States coal, now about 22,000,000 tons a year, the delegation said:

"We are given to understand the policy of the present government is for free trade . . . This policy does not appear to be consistent as we are aware there are industries in eastern Canada such as the automobile, electrical appliance and other industries which are protected."

"Furthermore it is a fact that the U.S. government places either tariff or quota on imports of any commodity which may affect the interests of U.S. producers of such commodities."

Since 1928 when duty was first imposed on imported coal, the government had received $287,618,583. But it had paid out in subventions only 618,120,069.

The United States was accused of "retailing the Japanese market" at Canada's expense.

Urging the federal government to expand exports to Japan which currently imports 30,000,000 tons of coal a year, the delegation declared:

"The United States for various reasons beyond the control of individual western coal producers, has managed to retain the Japanese market at our expense . . ."

Through the trade commissioners the federal government should conclude a trade treaty with Japan.

"Once the market is open to Canadian coal, assistance in the form of shipping and loading facilities in the Vancouver area should be provided."

Other suggestions put forward included increased freight subventions on coal shipped east and similar assistance for shipments in western Canada itself.

Further, the maintenance of a "minimum number" of coal-fired locomotives by the railroads would "prevent our major transportation system from being wholly dependent on petroleum fuels in a national emergency."

An "independent emergency committee" should be appointed immediately to investigate the situation. Their recommendations should be placed before the government "within 60 days of this date."

In a special economic survey prepared by an independent agency the federal government was told western coal production had fallen by 22 per cent in the period 1954-53. The labor force had slumped by 44 per cent from 11,489 to 7,703.

Apart from the decline "at the beginning of the depression" this was the "most serious fall in production ever recorded by the coal industry of western Canada." Scientific analyses showed the position would worsen considerably by 1960 unless aid was forthcoming. Production in that year would at most amount to 5,410,000 tons. It might be as low as 5,100,000 tons. It is presently 9,392,387 tons.

There was "no evidence" this decline would not continue after 1960, "even though the annual decreases might be more gradual." There was no danger the industry would disappear altogether, but it would shrink to an "insignificant size."

This should not be allowed to happen, said the western delegates. National defence requirements alone demanded the industry be kept in a healthy state.

where they will set up a cafeteria to feed the conventioners.

A high point of the Assembly will be reached Sunday, December 5th at 3 p.m. when Mr. D. E. Held, a special Watchtower representative from Toronto, will deliver his address "Does God Really Care", in the Capitol Theatre. It is expected that some seven-hundred of the witnesses and general public will attend this lecture.

Now You Know What a Wife Is

(by Mary Bishop in The Rotarian Magazine)

A wife is the girl you married. She likes flowers, chocolates, smart clothes and going places as much as the day you married her. If you can't give her these, a kiss that says "I love you" will do.

A wife is a steam laundry, a house cleaning service, a cook, a commissary, and a lavatory attendant to your babies. She is a mother, nurse, counsellor and sock darning.

She is a detective and quickly locates the screw driver that you left right there three weeks ago and that the children have carried away.

A wife is a magician. Your favorite shirt appears where she said it was when she comes to look for it, and in a flash she can produce order in a house that you and the children have run through with a bulldozer.

A wife licks your wounds, bolsters your ego, and has faith and persistence that makes you move mountains. She is a safety valve when you must blow off steam at someone. She knows you as a small boy at heart who has never grown up and that when you have a cold it is much worse than when she has a cold.

A wife must have the patience of Job, the wisdom of Solomon, the endurance of Atlas, and a sense of humor, but never, never show it when you are in a temper.

A wife spends the afternoon preparing your favorite meal for the night when you ring at six o'clock to say you are working late at the office. At week-ends she has lunch ready just as you have crawled under the car, runs the vacuum cleaner just as you've settled in your easy chair with the paper, asks you to fix something just as you are setting off on a game of golf.

A wife is the girl you married, although fatter or thinner — most certainly older. She might be even a bit dull. But look in the mirror, sir! Are you still the handsome, gay, carefree dog you used to be? Honestly, now.

A wife understands you, needs you, loves you. In the world of men, you may feel like crumbling limestone, but the minute you step through your door you are her Rock of Gibraltar.

New Ontario Record For Rainbow Trout

A joy to any fisherman's eye is this record Ontario rainbow trout, caught in the Sturgeon river by 17-year-old Bob Edgar of Toronto. Pat Pierson holds the monster, which weighed in at 15 pounds, seven ounces. The previous record was 14 pounds, four ounces.

Jehovah Witnesses

Ten members of the local congregation of Jehovah's witnesses are leaving Coleman Friday, December 3rd, to attend their semi-annual Circuit Assembly to be held in Lethbridge December 3rd, 4th, and 5th.

This Assembly represents fifteen (15) congregations in Southern Alberta and is eagerly looked forward to by all members of the group as a place to receive bible education and training in field preaching.

Among those going from Coleman are Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Krish and family, Mrs. William Fair-brother and son Bruce. The Witnesses are using the Henderson Lake Pavilion for their Assembly in Lethbridge this year.

Editorially SPEAKING

WHAT IS A CREDIT UNION?

A Credit Union is as important as the vision of the people who organize it. It may be a means of combating usury. It may be a convenient and humane way of saving money and making loans at low rates. Or it may be the foundation of a better and fuller community life. It may be the bridgehead of democracy on the forbidding coast of finance. What it shall be is up to the members.

It is organized like a club: one member one vote, with officers elected from the membership.

It is organized for a particular group: people working for the same employer; people who are members of the same church, labor union, fraternal order; people who live in the same small community.

Membership is open to anyone in the group, regardless of race, color or creed.

How It Works

The credit union is used by its members to accumulate their savings and to make loans to each other from their savings. A board of directors elected by the members controls the policies of the credit union. A treasurer appointed by the directors takes care of the business details. A credit committee elected by the members pass on applications for loans. Each year in an annual meeting the members review the business of the credit union and vote on policies.

Funds Protected

The financial soundness of the credit union is safe-guarded in several ways: by incorporation under state or federal law, by a supervisory committee which periodically inspects the books independently of the treasurer, by an annual examination of the books by state or federal authority and by bonding the treasurer and all other officers who handle money.

Low-Cost Credit

Since the credit is run like a club—with most of the members being acquainted with each other, officers serving for the most part without pay and the expenses of doing business quite low—the credit union is an economical source of credit. Interest rates are never higher than 1 per cent per month on unpaid balance, while loan companies charge as high as 3½ per cent per month. Thus a credit union loan of $100 paid off in ten months would cost $5.50 in interest, while the same loan from a loan company would cost as much as $19.25.

Credit union earnings are used to defray expenses, to set up a reserve fund against uncollectible loans and to pay dividends on savings accounts. Losses in credit unions, which are almost always covered by reserves, have been remarkably low, averaging about one-tenth of one per cent; the feeling of loyalty to the credit union, which after all is just a group of friends and acquaintances, accounts for this.

All Kinds of Loans

Loans may be made for any purpose which is to the member's benefit — any "provident or productive purpose." Common reasons for borrowing include paying off old bills, buying for cash rather than on instalments, taxes, medical bills, funeral expenses, home repairs, farm equipment, vacations, wedding expenses, education, helping a friend and so on. Loans vary as to how much a credit union may lend to any one member, but it is common for a credit union to lend as much as $300 on the borrower's signature, and much more with security.

The credit union, it should be remembered, is primarily a co-operative association of people who want to help each other out, as a helpful adjunct of a church, farm community or labor union. It can offer social activity and an outlet for the creative ability of its members and sympathetic officers, can help its members through almost any emergency: sickness, unemployment, crop failure, disasters.

Notice To Creditors And Claimants

In the estate of William Antrobus, late of Coleman, Alberta, retired, deceased.

Notice is hereby given that all persons having claims upon the estate of the above named William Antrobus who died on the 4th day of October, 1954, are required to file with the undersigned by the 15th day of January, 1955, a full statement duly verified of their claims and of any securities held by them and that after that date the administrator will distribute the assets of the deceased among the parties entitled thereto having regard only to the claims of which notice has been so filed or which have been brought to its knowledge.

Dated at Blairmore, Alberta, this 19th day of November, 1954.

WE'RE LOSING TOURISTS

While the weather may have kept a lot of tourists at home this year, Canada must sharpen up its attractions to keep our tourist-take from dwindling further, thinks The Financial Post.

Recent suggestions include improvement of meals and highways. These and a lot of other matters will have to be attended to.

Canada is now getting only about 32% of the U.S. tourist dollar compared with 45% in 1942 while Europe's share has climbed from 2% to 33% in that period.

The tourist business is a very lucrative income we have taken almost for granted in the past years. We can't afford to do so any longer. Now we are competing not with the hash-slinger of northern Wisconsin but with the thoroughly trained chefs in Europe.

Other Canadians Helped

Ottawa was quite right in refusing federal grants for proposed extension to the Toronto subway, thinks The Financial Post.

Whether they ride or not, every Canadian has contributed substantially to the cost of the present subway and undoubtedly will continue to contribute to the cost of any extension.

It works this way:

The Toronto Transportation Commission which operates the Toronto subway is a publicly owned organization and therefore escapes corporation income tax. During the war when privately owned companies were paying at least 50% of their profits to Ottawa, the TTC was salting its profits away. It was those wartime profits, which formed the kitty that got Canada's first subway started. Had the TTC been an ordinary private corporation, at least half of those profits and quite possibly nearly all would have gone into the public treasury at Ottawa and the general taxpayer in Hamilton, Halifax, Port Credit and Port Moody would not have had to dig down quite so deep.

The Toronto subway is an excellent and needed improvement. Toronto and Torontonians deserve credit for creating it. But let's not forget the general taxpayer of Canada. His contribution helped, too, whether he realized it or not.

"The Financial Post."

Motorist Is Winning

Canada's gasoline marketing program has warmed up to a postwar competitive pitch, writes W. L. Dack in The Financial Post. Not since the cut-throat '30s have the major oil companies counted so closely the traffic into the other fellow's service station.

And out of the refiners' problems come benefits for the motorist. It is bringing better quality gasoline — octane levels have never been higher; better winter car performance; less carbon deposition. It is bringing better service at the retail outlets.

Price? No general downward trend yet — but localized service station price wars appear spreading in some areas and new significant marketing drives, like Sun Oil's "one-price" gasoline program, are making themselves felt.

The Financial Post.

There are nine requisites for contented living: health enough to make work a pleasure; wealth enough to support your needs; strength enough to battle with difficulties and overcome them; grace enough to confess your sins and forsake them; patience enough to toil until some good is accomplished; charity enough to see some good in your neighbor; love enough to move you to be useful and helpful to others; faith enough to make real the things of God; faith enough to remove all anxious fears concerning the future. — Goethe.

Through the untiring efforts of Mrs. Alice Buckna, residents of The Pass were treated to a stirring concert performed by Leo Aquino of Vancouver, B. C.

A very large crowd packed the Elks Hall on Tuesday, November 23 to witness a brilliant performance by this young Canadian concert accordionist.

His program was so well received that the audience called him back for three encores and would have wanted more if Mr. Aquino had played. But after two and a half hours of rigorous playing the young star was "beat".

A talented and sincere student, Leo has mastered the technique of his chosen instrument to a truly remarkable degree. His keyboard dexterity has been described as "dazzling" and he shows a musical maturity, insight and understanding of style-period and interpretation that belies his youthful age.

The accordion has finally arrived a place of recognition as a worth while musical instrument, this through the combined efforts of a number of teachers, performers and students all over the world. The handicap of a relatively small library of music written for the accordion has been partially overcome by the fact that the music of the Masters, suitably transcribed, is eminently suited for the instrument. As a solo instrument, the accordion is well established, and several major symphony orchestras in England and the United States have featured accordion artists as soloists.

Mr. N. F. W. Picard acted as Master of Ceremonies and introduced Mr. Aquino. He also pointed out that only through the efforts of Mrs. Alice Buckna was this concert available.

The people of The Pass can be very grateful to this music minded woman for all the progress she has made in the cultural developments of the Crow's Nest Pass.

Mr. Picard also stated that Mrs. Buckna was unable to carry on with this work due to her own rigid schedule of affairs. She asked that any club or organization who would be interested in sponsoring entertainment of this sort, should contact her for particulars.

We are very privileged to be able to have these celebrities come to this area and it would be a great loss indeed if the work of
